Third-party enrollment and credentialing for Healthcare Professionals: An important step when starting your practice or adding a new provider.

When starting a practice or adding a new provider to an existing practice, it is crucial to grow your patient population to generate the revenue needed to financially support the practice. Becoming a Participating Provider with Medicare and other health insurance plans is an essential part of the process for ensuring that success. As a participating provider, patients will be directed to your practice through the insurance plan's provider directory.

To become a participating provider, the insurance plan requires the provider to successfully complete their very specific and time-consuming credentialing program. Credentialing is and probably always will be a daunting task that burdens providers with redundant paperwork and follow-up. Having the knowledge and experience to skillfully navigate and accurately expedite this process is vital. For many practices, utilizing a specialized credentialing service is a preferred method to quickly enroll providers as participating with health plans.

Because there are so many insurance plans, each with their own credentialing and enrollment requirements, it is important to have someone who knows the "ins and outs" of credentialing and enrollment on your team. The enrollment process can take 30-120 days, or even longer, depending on the health plan. Completing applications perfectly, in a timely manner, and submitting them to the correct insurance enrollment department are musts for ensuring expedited enrollment to health plans.

When working with an enrollment and credentialing expert, providers can increase revenue opportunities and minimize startup costs and expenses by accelerating the often tedious enrollment process. Outsourcing to a company that specializes in credentialing ensures that providers get enrolled faster, allowing you to see patients sooner and stress less over paperwork. Using experts to process and manage your paperwork reduces the lengthy process of provider enrollment to half the time it would take provider practices to do it themselves.

PracticeWorx streamlines the provider enrollment and credentialing process so your providers can focus on what matters most- patients.
